

to the Fredericktown Savings Institution in 1934. I do know that Lewis E. Owens was the son and only heir-at-law and only child of Mary J. Owens. I also know that Mary J. Owens died before 1934, and any interest she had in the farm would have passed to her son, Lewis E. Owens, as he was her only child. After Lewis Owens sold the farm to the Fredericktown Savings Institution he went to board with a family who lived on the pike which runs from Kempton to the Fingerboard, and he lived with this family until he died. I do not remember exactly when he died, but I do know that he is buried in the graveyard of the Providence Methodist Church in Kempton.
